

The following message is for PASS bargaining unit employees and their managers.

AVS Colleagues,

The Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), Aviation Safety (AVS), and the Professional Aviation Safety Specialists, AFL-CIO (PASS) are pleased to announce that we have reached a voluntary, tentative agreement on the terms of a new collective bargaining agreement (CBA). This new agreement, when ratified by the PASS membership, will be applicable to bargaining unit employees within the Flight Standards and Aircraft Certification Organizations. This Agreement reflects the parties' hard work in balancing the FAA's mission needs while recognizing the dedication of the workforce and their unwavering commitment to our Agency's mission.

This is the first step towards having a new 5-year CBA between the FAA and PASS for AVS bargaining unit employees. The next steps will include educating employees on the substance of the agreement, followed by the PASS ratification process whereby dues-paying members will vote on it. This will be followed by the Agency completing the statutory Agency head review.
